ABOUT MEAT PACKING

HAROLD BROOKS' ADDRESS ON "THE MEAT INDUSTRY" BEFORE LA CANADA CLUB

At the meeting of the La Canada association Saturday evening, Mr. Harold Brooks gave a most interesting address on "The Meat Industry." Mr. Brooks is the son of the Rev. Dr. Brooks, president of the La Canada association. The speaker said:

"From the humble beginning in the farms of the country where the farmer killed his own cattle, sheep and hogs, and the small businesses of the dealers who did their own killing the great meat industry of the United States has grown. Gus Swift started as a boy killing an occasional heifer and peddling the meat from door to door. Being a youth of some genius he conceived the idea of sending meat all over the country in refrigerator cars. That was after his business had begun to assume considerable dimensions. He put the idea into practice and cleared a fortune out of it. Others saw the money that was to be made in this business and Armour got into it with amazing success. Two of Armour's employes, Michael and Ed Cudahy, learned the business and conceived the idea of starting for themselves which they did with immediate success. They have now packing houses at Omaha, Chicago, Kansas City, Wichita, Sioux City, Memphis and Los Angeles.

"Armour, Swift, Morris and Cudahy have long been the leaders in the meat industry. Doubtless much that was written in Upton Sinclair's "The Jungle," which described with much graphic detail abuses in the meat packing system, was true. Anyway the revelations made in the book lead to very stringent inspection laws, enacted in 1889. Foreign governments which have very strict laws governing the sale of meats were stirred up by the story of the loose methods in the American packing houses to threaten to exclude American meats from their markets. This led the American government to institute a searching system of meat inspection.

"In the first place the cattle are inspected on the ranches and all diseased cattle found there are either quarantined or killed. In the second place the cattle and other animals are inspected on their journey to the packing house. In the packing house itself they are again inspected and placed in sanitary pens, whence they are sent to the killing room; the carcasses are again inspected and any found to have had disease that escaped detection while the animal was alive are certain to be detected in this final probe. Carcasses affected with tuberculosis are sent to the fertilizer plant.

"All animals are treated kindly. It was found that animals ill-treated showed evil effects of such treatment in the hide, which rendered them useless for the purposes for which they were intended. All animals about to be killed are washed very carefully to remove any possibility of infection. Even the methods of handling the cattle are modern and humane. The cattle are urged forward by means of an electric current, transmitted by a slender steel rod, while the animals stand in water.

" 'Cleanliness first' is the motto of the packing house. Every step of the killing and packing process is sanitary. All the internal organs are carefully examined for trace of disease. The carcasses are swung on chains and never allowed to touch the floor. Three out of every 600 animals examined by the government inspectors are condemned. Everything in the shape of a carcass passing through the packing house is covered with protective cloths. The meat is sent to the cooler after having been killed and usually gets out of there before three weeks are over. The government stamp is on every prominent part of the carcass.

"Hogs are much more liable to disease than sheep or cattle. Recently out of 400 hogs, 50 were condemned for cholera and of the fifty, 35 were condemned in one day out of one flock. Sheep are much more free from disease. So are goats. The goat specially is not subject to tuberculosis. That makes goats' milk specially valuable.

"The packing house utilizes every part of the animal. The packers have been experimenting with a substitute for lard and the Cudahys have produced 'suetene,' which keeps much longer than lard. It is made largely from cotton seed oil. Modern methods also have considerably shortened the time necessary for the preparation of hams, a few weeks being all the time needed now.

"Under the pure food law every can of meat is inspected and recently one out of every 100 was condemned in a shipment to England. Sausages, wieners in particular, are carefully produced and every scrap is sanitary.

"The packing house saves everything suitable; bones for buttons, the horn and hoofs for glue, the blood for chicken feed, and the ordinary bones for bonemeal. The fat is made into soap and the scraps into fertilizer. My own experience has tended to convince me that the packing house is scrupulously clean, carefully inspected and always in a first-class, sanitary condition."

PRAISE FOR CLIMATE

J. W. McCURDY OF NOVA SCOTIA SAYS NO PLACE EQUALS GLENDALE

Nine years ago Mr. J. W. McCurdy, a prominent citizen of Truro, Colchester county, Nova Scotia, visited Southern California for the first time. During that visit he was so struck by the wonderful climate and scenery that he resolved that he would make every endeavor to spend his days here. His desire has been accomplished and Mr. McCurdy is now dwelling in a handsome residence, 1710 Fair Oaks avenue, looking out at the noble outline of the Verdugo hills and the more distant Sierras.

"Truro, Nova Scotia, from which I came to Glendale," said Mr. McCurdy to a representative of the Glendale Evening News on Monday, "is situated about two hours' journey by rail from Halifax, the great port and naval station of Nova Scotia. Truro is a small place, with about 7000 inhabitants. It is the center of a large agricultural district, a mixed farming community. The town itself is chiefly occupied in manufacturing. The country district produces grain, hay and root crops. The climate is very moist. This great humidity makes the cold exceedingly penetrating. The winds are bitterly cold and they blow all the time. The winters on the average show about six or seven degrees of frost. At times the thermometer drops with great suddenness to as far as 20 below zero. I have seen the temperature vary in a single day from 20 below to 40 above.

"You can imagine that Glendale is a welcome change after a climate of that kind. I delight in this climate. I seldom could get sleep. Here I feel the soothing influences of the climate and I could go to sleep at almost any time. I am an enthusiast about Southern California. I remember long ago hearing a clergyman speaking at an open-air meeting in Echo park. He told a story of a man who died and went to heaven. St. Peter was showing him around. 'Who are these?' said the newcomer, pointing to a number of anxious-faced people dwelling inside a stockade. 'Those,' said the saintly gatekeeper, 'are Californians. We've got to keep them inside that stockade or they'd be back in Southern California in a moment. The climate is so much better there.'

"I thought at the time and I still think that the story was very apt. In every possible way this is a better spot than Truro, Nova Scotia. I get up every day and wonder if there is no change in the weather. But there is none. The sky is ever clear, the sun ever shining, and the land ever fair. It is wonderful!

"In Nova Scotia we have a very excellent apple belt that produces about 2,000,000 barrels of apples every year—Greenings, Baldwins, Northern Spies, Gravensteins and many other kinds—all good. The famous banks of Newfoundland furnish fish. We need no irrigation. We don't raise grapes and are able to grow apples commercially in certain sections only.

"Nova Scotia has one great natural wonder in the famous tides of the Bay of Fundy, which rise from 50 to 60 feet. Excellent hay crops are raised where the salt water nourishes a succulent species of grass. Halifax is a city of about 50,000 inhabitants and is a great center for the West Indian trade. Pictou is another good city. It is the Boston of Nova Scotia. Its people are intellectual, and from that center a great number of eminent people have come.

"With all its advantages and with all the tender memories Nova Scotia must always hold for me, I still prefer to live in this beautiful spot and under this glorious sunlight. I feel that I am drinking in health with every breath.

"Since coming to Glendale I have met a number of old Canadian friends and I know that there must be many more in the country. No one who has experienced the climate of Southern California would ever wish to live elsewhere. To me Glendale is one of the most charming spots on the face of the globe and I know I can never tire of its beauty and its amenities."

TROPICO LENDS AID

NEIGHBOR FIRE DEPARTMENT HELPS GLENDALE CHECK SERIOUS FIRE

Fire broke out Monday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock at 129 South Kenwood street in the house belonging to Fred Browning and occupied by W. Ross Campbell. Mr. Campbell, who is a bookkeeper in Barker Bros. establishment, Los Angeles, left as usual for the city in the morning, leaving at home Attorney McNutt of Terre Haute, Ind., who has been residing with him for some time attending to some valuable property interests. The papers connected with these interests were all spread out on a table in the house when it caught fire, but they were all saved, thanks to the activity of the neighbors and the fire department.

It is believed that the fire originated from a water heater, which was in a small closet. The gas, it is thought, ignited the woodwork and the fire spread to the attic, where it speedily spread out. By the time the alarm reached the fire department the flames were blazing all over the roof and the house was apparently doomed. The alarm was received at 3:50 and the engine was on the scene at 3:51.

It soon became manifest that the chemical engine was not sufficient to cope with the fire and the Tropico department was summoned, appearing on the spot within a few minutes after receiving the call. While the Tropico boys were on the way, the people had ample opportunity to observe how inadequate the water pressure is for such emergencies. The streams from garden hose are as effectual as that which the Glendale Fire department was able to use. Turning on the chemical on the fire the department directed its attention to saving the neighboring houses.

When the Tropico engine arrived, the flames were speedily subdued. Meanwhile the neighbors and firemen had been actively engaged in saving the furniture, clothing, personal effects and papers. This they succeeded in doing so effectively that whatever loss Mr. Campbell and Atty. McNutt may have sustained will probably be only that done by water. About $2,000 damage was done by the fire.

Chief Lankford and assistant Brewster were active in directing the fight against the flames. Patrolman Hollenbeck assisted with the chemical hose and did good work keeping the crowd back. Walter Eves, Joe Oleras, P. Fellows, Charles Potter, George Potter, Emil Keifer, S. Smith, C. Smith and W. G. Noland were all active in rendering service.

PROMISED LAND

MANY PEOPLE FIND TROPICO A WONDERLAND—OTHER NEWS ITEMS

Many citizens of our thriving city are entertaining relatives and friends from every state, city and hamlet of the United States who come to California to visit not only the two great expositions in San Francisco and San Diego, but also to visit this wonderful state, and again to visit relatives and friends who long since came here and finding this the promised land, are remaining. Of the many who come out to visit this wonderful country, all return determined to sell out and come here to reside. Among the many prominent visitors who have come to Tropico recently are Judge and Mrs. W. D. Wright of Knoxville, Tenn., who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Earl V. Coleman of Blanche avenue. Many delightful trips have been enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Coleman as host and hostess to Judge and Mrs. Wright while touring Southern California.

Mrs. Louise Purnell of West Tenth street, accompanied by Mrs. C. R. Appenfelder of West Seventh street with Thomas Morgan as pilot and driver of Mrs. Purnell's car, have returned from a week's auto trip to the "rim of the world," Big Bear and Little Bear lakes. The scenery was so picturesque and grand that Mrs. Purnell wonders that persons go abroad for scenery when we have such glorious and magnificent sights right here at our very door.

Prof. Robert Kennedy of the Tropico grammar schools, who while a most efficient teacher who can teach the young idea how to shoot, can also do some shooting himself. He has just returned from a most successful hunting trip, and though handicapped by having the use of his left arm only, yet this skillful nimrod shot fifteen cottontails in just a few hours Monday morning.

The municipal playground committee announces that a shirt waist dance will be given in the K. of P. hall on San Fernando road Thursday evening, August 12. Visor lodge, K. of P., has very kindly donated the use of the hall for this occasion and as the price is but fifty cents a couple and twenty-five cents for extra ladies, a large number of Tropico and Glendale society folk will attend. Busch's orchestra of Los Angeles will furnish the music and all of the modern dances will be indulged in, while the two-step and waltz will have as many devotees as the more up-to-date dances.

The summer school which has been conducted by Prof. Kennedy in the Magnolia street school, closed Friday.

FATHER O'NEILL RETURNS

Rev. Jas. S. O'Neill has again taken up his duties as pastor of the Holy Family church after an absence of nearly three months due to illness. Father O'Neill spent a month in the Sisters' hospital, taking treatment for inflammatory rheumatism, and so far recovered that he was able to go to Boston, where he spent six weeks visiting his mother and recuperating. He enjoyed his visit among his old friends and found his mother's ministrations the best tonic for his illness and comes back to his work much refreshed and renewed. Father O'Neill is being welcomed back by his large flock of parishioners as well as his many other friends in Glendale.

JUNIOR TENNIS PLAYERS

As much interest is being taken in the junior tennis tournament as was displayed in the senior matches. The boys appeared promptly in their scheduled order and most of the matches were played off Monday. Hollis Moyse and Milton Brown are striving hard for the prizes, but Robert Garrott and Roland Brown are going to give them a hard battle. Russell Clark, winner of the junior singles, and his partner, Lawrence Bassett, are also near the front rank. The prize lies between these three teams.

FIFTH CLASS CITY?

OFFICIAL CENSUS COMPLETED NEXT STEP IS ELECTION IN APRIL, 1916

City attorney W. E. Evans in the following letter advises the board of trustees as to the legal procedure in calling an election to vote to change the class of city from a Sixth class to a Fifth class.

July 31, 1915.

Honorable Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, Glendale, Cal.:

Gentlemen: At the last meeting of your board the city clerk reported that the enumerators appointed for the purpose of taking the census of the city had completed their work and filed their report showing Glendale to have a population of 7556. The clerk was instructed to file with the board of supervisors of Los Angeles county, as provided by law, a certified copy of the minutes of your board showing the number of inhabitants as shown by said enumeration. This action on the part of your board and the city clerk fixes an official population of the city of Glendale for the purposes of legislation. You thereupon referred to me the matter of the petition filed with your board by various citizens some time in the month of May, requesting the reorganization of the city of Glendale as a fifth class city, with the request that I advise you what action you are authorized to take under the law with reference to carrying out the request of said petitioners.

In the petition you were requested to proceed under the act of March 20, 1899 (statutes 1899, p. 75). The act under which the petition was filed provides in section four as follows:

"The census taken under the direction of the congress of the United States in the year 1890 and every ten years thereafter shall be the basis on which the respective populations of municipal corporations shall be determined, unless a direct enumeration of the inhabitants thereof has been made since such census, in which case such enumeration shall constitute such basis; provided, that if no such census, or direct enumeration, shall have been taken or made within three years next preceding the presenting of the petition for reorganization mentioned in section one of this act, such population shall be determined by multiplying by five the number of voters voting at the last general election held in such city."

The city of Glendale took an official census in July, 1912, which was less than three years from the filing of the petition and showed the population to be less than 6000. This census was insufficient for the reason that it fell short of the required 6000. That part of section four of the act, which provides for the determining of the census by multiplying the voting population by five, in my opinion, was never constitutional, but if it ever were valid, it was repealed by the enfranchisement of women in 1911, by which the voting population in the state of California was doubled. Therefore, it was necessary and proper for you to take the census of the city of Glendale before you had any jurisdiction to take steps toward calling an election for the purpose of reorganizing the city. Now that you have an official census, I am of the opinion that you are authorized to submit the matter of reorganization at either a special or general election. The law provides that if at such election the majority of the electors vote to reorganize the city as a city of the fifth class, that at the time of the next general election in cities of the fifth class officers shall be elected and assume their duties as such of the newly organized fifth class city. The next regular election in cities of the fifth class will be in April, 1919, and whether submitted at a special or general election, the reorganization could not take place until that time. Hence, it follows that to submit the question at the next general election in the city of Glendale, which is in April, 1916, will avail the same purposes as should you call a special election for the purpose of submitting the question, as the reorganization necessarily takes place in April, 1919, in either event. As to whether or not you wish to call this special election or submit the matter at the general election in 1916, without any additional expense, is a matter for your board to determine.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. E. EVANS,
City Attorney.

After the above letter was read, the Board of Trustees voted to hold the election referred to at the time of the general election in the spring of 1916.

NEW MASONIC STUNT

GLENDALE COMMANDERY WILL GIVE SECOND GLENDALINSKY ON THURSDAY, AUGUST 5

In accordance with the urgent requests made by the guests at the first "Glendalinsky" given by the Glendale Commandery, No. 53, Knights Templar, a second "stunt" of similar character will be presented to the public in the Masonic temple Thursday, August 5. The triangle committee of the Commandery, to whose intelligent ingenuity the last affair is to be credited, have been racking their brains to produce something of a most attractive nature for the large crowd of guests that is expected on Thursday night. They say they have succeeded.

Just what the surprise in store for the merrymakers will be cannot be told now. You must go there to find out. You also must go in shirt waists—fair and stern sex alike. That will be a pleasant condition these hot days. It will give everyone a chance to enjoy the swing of the dances that will enliven the evening and will lend a picturesque tone to the assembly.

Charles L. Peckham, Clement L. V. Moore and David George Crofton are the committee that is engineering this pleasant affair. They are convinced that attractive and popular as was the first "Glendalinsky," the second will be even more so. They will be assisted in their efforts to make this a memorable event in Masonic circles by the following patrons and patronesses, who will find scope for their services on the evening of Thursday: Mrs. C. L. Peckham, Mrs. C. L. V. Moore, Mrs. D. G. Crofton, Thomas D. Ogg and Mrs. Ogg, Delos H. Smith and Mrs. Smith, Claude E. Pulliam and Mrs. Pulliam, Harry E. Betz and Mrs. Betz, William G. Black and Mrs. Black, Ezra F. Parker and Mrs. Parker, E. K. Daniels and Mrs. Daniels, Percy J. Priaulx and Mrs. Priaulx, George F. Duffet, Mrs. Duffet and the Misses Duffet.

There is every promise of a very brilliant affair Thursday night and there is much pleasurable anticipation of its joys among all those who experienced the amusement of the last affair. That they will be reinforced by a new band of merrymakers is certain and the affair is certain to be one of the most enjoyable of the season.

QUIET HOME WEDDING

Amid the congratulations of their friends and relatives, Miss Laura E. Harkness and Mr. Nelson R. Sprinkle were married at the home of Mrs. May V. Kenyon, 1500 Oak street, on Monday. The Rev. F. G. A. Stevens of Pasadena, an old friend of the family, solemnized the marriage. The bride was dressed in white French lawn and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Proud of Whittier, the latter an aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sprinkle, Miss Zada Sprinkle, Miss May Sprinkle, Mrs. Clarence Sprinkle, Mr. James B. Benedict, Mrs. Florence Clark, Miss Merle Clark, Miss Ada Kenyon and Mr. Ralph Hart.

The bride received a very great number of presents, most of them being articles for housekeeping.

After the ceremony refreshments were served. The bride and bridegroom left for San Francisco. They will reside in Berkeley.

PEURRUNG-MILLER MARRIAGE

The marriage of Mr. Charles J. Peurrung, the genial auditor of the Glendale-Montrose railway, to Miss Alma Miller of Los Angeles, came as a surprise to his many friends of this community. The ceremony was performed at San Bernardino Sunday, July 25, the happy couple returning on Tuesday to their new home, which was all ready and waiting for them at 1231 Arden avenue. The bride is a brunette of pleasing personality and has been a popular employee of the New York store in Los Angeles for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Peurrung will be at home to their many friends after August 1.

CONTEST POSTPONED

The absence from town of some of the contestants makes necessary the postponement of the medal contest which was to be held Thursday evening, August 5, under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Notice of future dates will be given later.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. M. Ross Campbell and Dr. West wish to thank the fire chief and his assistants, the police department, kind neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted in saving many valuable papers, etc., in the fire at 129 South Kenwood street Monday.

GRAZING IN NATIONAL FORESTS

Quite a proportion of the work done by the United States government for the improvement of conditions throughout the country are not noticed by the people with the exception of those whom the improvements affect. For instance, but little has been heard in the public press of the important work done during ten years past to extend the grazing privileges in the national forests. The experiment has been successful.

Under the forest service system annual grazing permits, with the necessary regulatory provisions, have been in force for nearly a decade. The results have been most gratifying. In 1905, eighty-one acres supported but one animal; in 1913 the average was one animal for each fifty-one acres. The increase of 59 per cent has been so insensible as not to attract much public attention.

It is worthy of note, however, that there are now on the grazing lands in the forests 20,000 live-stock growers supporting 1,600,000 cattle and horses, with their calves and colts; and 7,600,000 sheep and goats with their lambs and kids. In addition the forest ranges furnished temporary grazing to millions of other animals which passed through the forests under crossing permits. The capacity of the range has not been reached. There is room for more animals on this part of the public domain.

Under systematic management the grazing value of the lands can be restored and increased; the range can be made to produce heavier animals, even with increased numbers, and the lands can be improved faster in use than in idleness.

Even with the very moderate grazing fees charged the stockmen pay the government more than $1,000,000 annually. Their gross receipts probably exceed $30,000,000 and their invested capital is more than $100,000,000. So advantageous has this constructive handling of the range problem proved that many stockmen are urging that the department's system of grazing be extended to the open public range outside the national forests. There is no doubt that the extension could be made with advantage and it could be so managed as to effect a considerable addition to the country's meat supply.

TRIUMPH OF SAN FRANCISCO

When the news was flashed throughout the world that San Francisco had been almost wiped out by earthquake and fire there were not lacking prophesies that it would never be rebuilt, or if rebuilt that it would never attain to anything like its former dimensions. Very few who saw the wreck and ruin wrought by the devouring elements would have credited that within three years after its destruction it would be looking again very much like its own self, only much better; rebuilt on a grander scale and restored once more to credit and to capital.

Without the spirit that rebuilt San Francisco the world would be very badly off. San Franciscans themselves would hardly have credited the prophesy that nine years after having been nearly wiped out that city would have been celebrating the greatest exposition the country has ever seen. In fact, there is no limit to what humanity can accomplish if it only banishes from its vocabulary the word "can't."

To stand on the noble waterfront of the exposition and look on that marvelous assemblage of handsome buildings replete with all that the world contains of the wonderful in mechanical achievement, the beautiful in art and the ingenious and useful in manufacture, is to realize what strength and power still dwell in the heart of the world.

San Francisco is a true type of all that is best in the American character—the spirit that never says "die," the spirit that sees no obstacle where other and meaner spirits see mountains of difficulty. It is narrated of the czar of Russia, who built the railroad between Petrograd and Moscow, that when his engineers came to him and stated there were difficulties to be overcome that were almost insuperable, that he said: "I want the railroad built at once." "But," objected the engineers, "what route shall we take?" "Take this route," said the czar, and laying a rule on the map he drew a straight line between the two cities. It was on this line the road was built, regardless of mountain, morass, lake or forest.

In fact, the straight line is always the shortest distance between two points and the man who takes that route is the one who will reach his goal first. The San Francisco exposition celebrates the triumph of the pioneer spirit of California, the spirit that led its possessors through storms, through deserts, through seas, through hostile Indians and prairie fires straight to their goal. That spirit dwells in the old state still and the influence of the Argonauts may even now be felt urging their sons forward.

SEASON OF FOREST FIRES

This is the season of forest fires. In spite of all that is said by way of warning, every season sees a repetition of the violations of forest regulations intended to prevent the recurrence of such outbreaks. The mountains and the woods are full of vacation parties. Singly, in pairs and in groups they wander all over the hills and valleys. They make fires and forget to extinguish them. They light matches and carelessly throw them among the brush. The consequence is that every season more and more valuable forest growth is burned down and the natural protection of the lower lands against floods is destroyed.

Just at this moment the Los Angeles reserve rangers are fighting a serious fire in the dense brush of Lytle Creek canyon in the San Bernardino mountains. Several destructive forest fires have occurred within the last two months in Kern and Tulare counties. Thirty thousand acres were recently burned over in the Devil's Den country. These are only a few of the fires that annually devastate the state. If holiday makers and campers would take common precautions the greater part of this evil might be avoided.

CASA VERDUGO

The movement of newcomers to this foothill section, first noticeable as above the average some two months ago, still continues. The following families are among the recent arrivals:

R. W. Clapp and family, which includes Mrs. Clapp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Burnett, all formerly of Chicago, have leased and occupy a house on Melrose avenue. Mr. Clapp is the new manager of the drug department of Espesero de Verdugo.

Charles H. Hamilton has leased a bungalow on Melrose avenue, which he has occupied with his mother. Mr. Hamilton for the past eighteen years has held a position in the Los Angeles postoffice. Desiring a change to outside life, he recently secured the new rural delivery known as the Griffith park route. Then it was a natural choice to select these foothills as an ideal climatic and scenic spot to enjoy life in.

Mr. J. A. Apffel, holding a position with one of the large manufacturing jewelry firms of Los Angeles, has leased and occupied with his family a charming bungalow on Melrose avenue, corner of Stocker street. They moved from another part of Glendale in order to be nearer Mrs. Apffel's parents, who recently purchased a property on Valley View road.

Mr. Charles A. Sharp, head of one of the departments in Espesero de Verdugo, has leased the Becker bungalow, 1011 Melrose avenue, and will move in next week.

E. T. Owen and family have just moved into No. 1675 Dryden street, one of the Birke bungalows.

Largely for the benefit of his wife's health, Mr. J. B. Clark, until ten days ago a resident of Thorald, Canada, severed long established business and social ties, as well as the memories of a severe climate, and entrained for Los Angeles direct with his family of seven, including Miss Carter, sister of Mrs. Clark. Under the direction of a prominent city physician they sought the most desirable foothill section, with the result that they registered at the Pepper Tree Inn, where they will await the preparation and furnishing of a nearby home which has been secured. Mr. Clark sat in the city council of his late home the past three years, his civic duties being in addition to the management of a large paper mill in a town where the location of $1,000,000 paper industries is not an uncommon occurrence. As for Jack and Eugene, the elder of the four children in the family, they accepted with enthusiasm the invitation of Mr. David Kelley to guide them up the side of Mt. Verdugo and visit "green bucket," "dead horse" and other canyons of local note. The hill climbing feat was achieved with much enjoyment for the youngsters as well as the adults of the party.

The comings and goings of Casa Verdugans are continuous, the large majority missing a record in the news columns of this paper, but your observer noted a few:

Thomas Saegar returned Monday from a visit to the San Diego exposition.

Mrs. E. K. Barnes of 1300 North Brand boulevard left Tuesday for a two months' visit in and around Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Barnes were observed in a box as the guests of the Saengerbund president, Charles F. L. Richter, at the matinee performance of the Saengerfest in the Shrine auditorium. Mr. Richter has left for San Francisco to spend German week at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Becker of 1124 Melrose avenue left Tuesday morning for San Francisco as members of a large party of relatives and friends who will visit the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Mr. J. T. Bennett, father of Mrs. R. W. Clapp of 1121 Melrose avenue, left Monday morning for his Chicago home after a month's visit with his daughter. The prediction is made that he will return permanently in less than a year.

Chas. Clapp, who has been ranching it in the Perris valley the past year and a half, where the thermometer touches 110 degrees in the shade without any effort, has arrived for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Clapp of Melrose avenue and to enjoy the morning high fogs and cool afternoon breezes of Casa Verdugo.

Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, assisted by Mrs. N. C. Kelley, are at work upon the details of the next entertainment of the Foothill club, which will be given at La Ramada with some novelties; but the invitations are not out yet.

The Osbornes of 1095 San Rafael street have been entertaining the past few weeks their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Eaton of Los Angeles.

Mr. William A. Robinson, a mushroom expert of years of experience in Canada, and now located on a two-acre ranch at Pacific avenue and Stocker street, was recently visited by Charles Hill of the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., who is making a special investigation of the possibilities of

BURBANK

There are thieves in the vicinity of Burbank who are original as well as active. During the past couple of weeks two chests of carpenter tools and other loose articles have been stolen, to the amount of $40, but on one night last week supposedly these self-same robbers made a most daring haul. The city had recently strung up about 1500 feet of copper wire in order to connect with houses recently erected on Central avenue in the Biggar tract. Some time during the night (supposedly Wednesday of last week) this wire was cut and removed from the poles. The wire stolen weighs over 150 pounds and if "scrapped" and melted into copper would sell for between twenty-five and thirty dollars.

Mrs. H. McFarland of San Francisco, who had been visiting at the home of Mrs. H. Fuhrmeister, recently returned to her bay city home.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lane left Tuesday of this week on a business trip to Mr. Lane's ranch, which is in the vicinity of Bakersfield.

C. H. Davis of Huntington Beach motored to Burbank Monday and spent several days visiting with old friends. Mr. Davis left Burbank five years ago and was a resident of this city for nine years.

C. S. Lovejoy, proprietor of the L. and W. garage, is spending his vacation on a fishing trip to Big Bear lake.

Rev. Chase moved into his new residence at Palm and Fifth streets Monday.

Misses Elsie and Grace Ludlow, Dale Eichar and C. Wickersham spent Sunday at Venice and Ocean Park.

L. I. Mulvey, proprietor of the Burbank pharmacy, purchased a new 1916 Haynes automobile recently.

Mrs. Markley of near Acton, Cal., spent Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Markley home in Burbank.

Mrs. Lindesmith, her daughter, Miss Irma, and son, Elone; Miss Margaret Valentine and Myron Glenn spent Sunday and Monday at a house party at Wildwood.

Miss Alice Thompson of Los Angeles is visiting the Misses Ludlow this week.

N. G. Gilkey of Monteseno, Wash., arrived in Burbank last Saturday to visit at the home of R. G. Glenn.

Mrs. R. G. Glenn left Thursday of last week to visit friends at Oceanside, from which town she went to San Diego with friends from Pomona.

Mrs. M. L. Vertress has accepted the position in Walker's department store vacated by Miss Elsie Ludnow.

Mrs. W. S. Walker went to Long Beach Sunday and spent the day with Mr. Walker, who is convalescing at the beach after his recent illness.

An anti-enlistment league in time of national emergency would make conscription a matter of course.

THANKS TO TROPICO

Fire Chief A. H. Lankford, in recognition of the services of the Tropico fire department at the fire which occurred at 129 South Kenwood street Monday, has sent the following letter to Fire Chief J. W. Gould:

Mr. J. W. Gould, Fire Chief, Tropico, Cal.:

Dear Sir: As chief of the Glendale fire department, I desire to thank you for the prompt and efficient service you rendered this department and the city of Glendale at the fire at 129 South Kenwood street Monday. Confronted with a serious blaze that threatened to spread and unable to hold it in check on account of our engine being merely a chemical, the arrival of your powerful pumping engine speedily put a new aspect on matters and with your able assistance we were soon in a position to handle the situation. If we can ever be of service to you, we will be glad to render you what assistance we can.

Sincerely yours,
A. H. LANKFORD,

FAIL TO CONNECT

L. E. Brockman and family of this city spent several days last week attending the exposition at San Diego. Mr. Brockman's brother and family of Calexico were in San Diego at the same time but a pre-arranged family reunion that had been anticipated was not realized. The two families agreed to meet in San Diego on a certain day but failed to arrange a specified time and place, so after two days' frantic search for each other in the hotels of San Diego and on the exposition grounds, Mr. Brockman wired to Calexico in an endeavor to learn where his brother and family were stopping in San Diego and the brother phoned to Glendale for a like purpose. At last accounts, the two families had not succeeded in meeting. Mr. Brockman's friends are taking occasion to make this incident the subject of a joke on him. Mr. Brockman is a real estate dealer and is accustomed to handling such large tracts of land that San Diego evidently seemed so small a place to him that he did not consider it necessary to designate a special place for meeting his relatives.

JUNIOR BALL LEAGUE

Julius Lehman, Hastings Bidwell and Miss Rowe, the three summer playground directors, have arranged to meet at the Pacific avenue playground Thursday at 12:30 p. m. for the purpose of organizing a junior baseball league. The object of the league will be to make the games between the teams mean more than mere "choose-up" games. The percentages of the games won will be published and a record kept so that every time a game is lost or won the percentages will be raised or lowered. The captains and managers of the teams thus far organized are requested to attend the meeting on Thursday.

Public notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale did at its meeting on the 2nd day of August, 1915, fix the time and place for the hearing of the appeals to said Board against the diagram and assessment for the construction of a bridge on Opechee Way and for the grading of a channel in the Verdugo Canon Wash, on Monday evening at 8:15 P. ### "MODERN SHOPPING"

Monday was a truly big day for not only the merchants of Broadway and Spring street, Los Angeles, but also for the shoppers. Many bargains were obtained. The detectives report having made several important arrests of shoplifters, some of whom succeeded in escaping the penalty of the law by paying for the goods "lifted" or stolen.

A great deal is called literature that is only printed matter.

It is planned to set federal convicts to making munitions. But what if some of them have scruples against abetting war?

"I engaged the rooms for my holiday," he said, "because the landlady wrote me that they overlooked a superb garden of 200 acres, richly adorned with statuary, where I was at liberty to promenade."

"Well?" Jones inquired.

"It was a cemetery," he said, bitterly.

the mushroom industry in Southern California. The disruption of the industry in France by the great war has cut off the principal source of supply for the finest brands, thus calling attention to the opportunity now open to supply the great demand for fancy canned mushrooms by the home-grown article. Mr. Hill estimates that a scientific mushroom plant would require an investment of $10,000, but the returns would be large.

The transcontinental motorcycle tourists, Hilman and Safe, who left the Pepper Tree Inn a little over three weeks ago, have accomplished the first leg of their journey with complete success. They made a record of 1000 miles in five days, the speedometer log of the runs showing that they tore off 210 miles in one day over the fine highways nearing San Francisco. After visiting the exposition they proceeded to Ashland, Ore., where Mr. Hilman's parents and many other relatives reside. They had no accidents, but one day in the dense forests of the northern part of the state they each took the fork of a road and ran apart, not getting together again until a seventy-mile chase of hide and seek. They are now touring the Yellowstone park.

The Charles H. Toll family have spent the month of July at Hermosa Beach. Early in August they will transfer to San Francisco, leasing a house for a month in order to comfortably survey the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Julius Kranz and family are occupying their cottage for the summer at Hermosa Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Phister of Valley View road have returned home after a two weeks' trip to the exposition at San Francisco.

The W. P. Thompson family of Grand View boulevard are rusticating at L. C. Brand's lodge on Lake Mono, Inyo county. Before returning home they will motor to San Francisco and take in the sights of the great fair.

The E. B. Wyman family of North Maryland avenue are spending a month at La Jolla.

A part of the San Gabriel forest reserve, including Tejunga canyon, which adjoins the northeast corner of the San Fernando valley, about twenty miles by road from here, has been set aside by the United States government as a camping ground for the public. Cottage sites may be leased at the rate of $15 per annum for a term of thirty years. Receiver Alex Mitchell of the United States land office, has established a camp under the great towering pines near a dashing waterfall. His son, Gilbert, is piloting many of his boy friends to the romantic beauty spot, where trout fishing and woodcraft may be enjoyed. But the young ladies have decided that there is not enough level ground in that locality for dancing purposes and that hammock life is too monotonous for all summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Winslow, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Geo. T. Phelon of Viola avenue, are making her a visit for the first time in twenty-seven years, although they have resided in Madera county all that time. They pronounce Southern California great and admit that the influences of the environment are "working" on them and may compel them to stay permanently. Although Mr. Winslow has been engaged in the granite business for twenty-seven years at the gateway to the world-famed Yosemite valley, he has never visited that natural wonder, which is parallel to people living in Glendale and vicinity for years and yet have never climbed our foothills.

At least, this country has recognized Carranza's inability to make good as the political savior of Mexico.
